

Monetary Revolution-USA

This book is an introduction to how people and governments create, use, and abuse money and credit. It focuses on the USA monetary system, including its history, where we are in late 2010, and how to fix our failing economic and monetary system. Broadly, a monetary system for a nation is used to provide and control the exchange of money. It includes the currency (physical coins and paper, or their electronic form), mints, various types of private (not government owned) banks, and usually a central bank which manages the system and stores the nations reserves (gold, currency of other nations, etc.). In most nations, the central bank is owned and operated by the government, but our Federal Reserve System is a so-called private corporation, but operates in secrecy and kow-tows to pressure from politicians. It was created by bankers to serve the interests of bankers and politicians, thus a scandal from its start. All developed nations today control their monetary systems tightly, including legal tender laws that give the governments a monopoly on creating money, and in various ways force people to use only the official government money (no gold, pesos, etc.). History and logic shows us that using a commodity such as gold as private money (issued by non-government mints) and banking always works well, where anyone can create money and run a bank, and the only government role is to prevent fraud and theft. The crooks that create and push (as in dope pushers) fake money are soon discovered and no one will use their money or bank. However, when the government is the crook, and uses legal tender laws to force use of their fake money, it is harder for the citizens to make corrections! Politicians always try to gain control of the system so they can manipulate it to fund wars and projects to keep and enhance their jobs, egos, and power. They make new fiat money out of thin air, debase coins (reduce precious metal content or coin size), etc. Fiat means the government declares the face value of metal or paper representative money without regard to the intrinsic market value of the material of which it is made. Internationally, from about 1920 to 2008, the US dollar was the worlds primary reserve currency (treated good as gold by banks, and used in trade between other nations worldwide) which allows us to create dollars out of thin air to pay our foreign debts (imports and loans) with our own currency (most nations must buy US Dollars) without facing exchange rates (very handy for our big spending government !), and 2. Our Federal Reserve System creates new fake money to fund the excessive federal spending (politicians like that better than raising taxes), plus recent massive bailouts of firms run by their friends, using phony reasons such as too big to fail. Our states have become dependent on federal money as they seek and accept grants, pork, and federally funded state projects with strings attached (happily provided by vote-seeking congresspersons), and lose their states rights in the process. All of this federal spending leads to an excess increase in our money supply, which causes price inflation and eventual failure of the US dollar as its value drops worldwide. Thus, our present mode of operation is not sustainable and must end. The USA needs a Monetary Revolution to end distortions and losses in our economy, reduce the occurrence of wars (they are expensive) and depressions, and end corruption in government and the financial services industry. The Federal monopoly of money feeds its unconstitutional and damaging conduct. The economic and moral decline of our is the result. For more information, and updates on topics herein, see my web site www.Forward-USA.org. Please send comments to Dave@Forward-USA.org.

The Impending Monetary Revolution, The Dollar and Gold. The U.S. has not yet suffered the dire economic consequences of Greece - 8 sec Watch Read Monetary Revolution-USA: Let Private Mints Issue Gold as Money

