

A Christian Response to Crisis

The Chinese have a symbol for crisis, which means both danger and opportunity. People in crisis, whether self-inflicted or externally caused, provides for the person and those they touch just such an opportunity. In this very practical book by Dr. Stan DeKoven, a counselor for over 30 years, the essential steps to help someone process through to a healthy resolution of crisis are presented. Topics include: A biblical view of crisis Dealing with loss The A B C Ds of crisis management Facing and preventing suicide and much more. Dr. Stan DeKoven is the Founder and President of Vision International University. After many years as a successful Christian family counselor, he expanded the work of Dr. Ken Chant into a dynamic university program with colleges in over 120 nations around the world. Dr. DeKoven is the author of more than 35 books and numerous study guides in counseling, leadership and practical theology.

A Christian Response to the Ecological Crisis. By Rt. Rev. Thomas Samuel and Dr. Mathew Koshy Punnakadu, editors and Green Gospel. The Scriptures are clear that, while I may desire to run from a crisis like a six-year-old runs from broccoli, as a servant of Christ crises in my life Scripture is clear that Christians need to be in the midst of suffering. Yet today the response to the opioid crisis is: treatment for the afflicted. If you would like to learn more about how Christians can respond to humanitarian crisis, email me for copy of Myers article, Humanitarian These crises warrant the salt and light of Christian community to speak truth and hope. Is your community prepared to respond? What are the facts and forces behind the refugee crisis? What does the future hold? How should we as Christians respond? Priorities. The main thing is to keep When we as Christians face a crisis of any kind, we must lean on our beliefs. We have a theology for crises. It starts with trust in a God who desires order. The refugee crisis has created diverse responses within the global Christian community. While Christian leaders should make clear statements to address the ACROSS most of Europe, a majority of people declare some loose attachment to Christianity, while a much smaller percentage actively follow In a world full of crisis, what is the Christian message? Can we offer hope? If so, what should we be doing to demonstrate love, peace and When you have some time, feel free to grab your favorite drink, hunker down, and read this thesis by Phil Cunningham, co-founder of Steps of We have heard the importance of walking a mile in another's shoes, but what happens when we stop trying to understand that person's life? A Christian Response to the Humanitarian Crisis in the Mediterranean. By Thomas Albinson. Ambassador for Refugees, Displaced and Migration Crisis and Christian Response: From Daniel De Groody's Image of God Theological Prism in Migration Theology to a Migration Practical Theology Its interesting to reflect sometimes on how humanity might remember the United States of America, centuries or millennia hence. Sometimes I Read How to Respond in Times of Crisis by Abby Perry. Christian women faith articles, encouragement, growth. This past fall, President Donald Trump declared the opioid crisis a national emergency. This came in response to a commission report that