Limited time offer We all need guidance now and then, even if we don't want to admit it. The best way is a friendly reminder of the magnificent power, love that is already within you, perhaps hiding. The best way to bring this side to light is by exposing yourself to someone who has gone beyond what is humanly thought possible, especially a person who has tackled a ton of adversity and a person who said no to escapism and said yes to dreams and aspirations. What follows are such a person, Mike Tyson, the legendary boxer. Along his own personal journey, through hurt and triumph, he left snippets of wisdom along the way, life lessons that can help anyone, whatever his or her circumstances, be a stronger, more focused version, especially if that person is in need of inspiration. The life lessons that follow were selected very carefully. Each of them contains wisdom that is only attainable through a ton of hurt, perseverance, and faith. If you find yourself nodding, inspired by one of the lessons, then that life lesson is especially important to you right now in your life circumstances. Your subconscious mind will understand the importance, even if there is no conscious connection just yet. The most important part of it all? It's all meant to be a friendly reminder of the strength that is already within you. If something doesn't make sense, disregard it. If something makes sense, think about it. Soon, you too will start to see things differently; consequently, your life becomes better not years from now, but the moment you start reading the coming chapters, planting the seeds of wisdom in your mind. Limited time offer
